FAT BOY DIET

Home Style Reducing Diets Don't Work

By ELMER WHEELER

"HOLD ON to your hats, boys—here we go again!"

That's what I should have said to myself. There I was, all ready to start dieting again, just like I done three times a year ever since I first noticed that I couldn't stand up straight and still see my feet.

Dieting again, just as I'd done dozens of times before. I was an old hand at it now. I knew all the angles.

I dug out my old diet books. Brushed up on my calorie charts. Put a digest of what to eat and what not to eat in my vest pocket and I was on my merry way.

I NEVER BOTHERED with seeing a doctor or a diet expert. I already had all the answers, so why spend money to have someone else repeat them to me?

No need to see a doctor. I told myself. All I had to do was cut out sugars and starches, as the books say, and do push-ups.

Best exercise in the world, pushing yourself up from the table.

All I was eating was one real meal a day now. How could anyone get fat on just one meal a day?

Why, I was eating like a bird. Couldn't help but lose weight. It was plain and simple logic.

I cut all salt out of my diet.

My breakfast now was merely a double orange juice (a fellow's system needs fruit, of course), three slices of rye bread (nothing fattening if it isn't white, I figured), some peanut butter, jam and black coffee. No cream or sugar.

Still the typical dieting fatty, who makes a profession of it. I didn't eat a single thing for lunch. Well, that is, nothing heavy.

Just a large bowl of split pea or cream of chicken. A handful of crackers.

Then a sandwich. Nothing heavy about that, certainly. A glass of milk—it's all liquid, isn't it? No pies. No meat.

Somehow I managed to get through the days. Each night I would rush home, fall weakly on the divan, and wait for dinner.

Both, how I hate! But why not? One meal a day couldn't hurt a fellow, could it?

My diet sprees was in full swing now.

I kept right on pounding away at the pounds. Give 'em no quarter, was Elmer's motto.

Never let up. One meal a day, no heavy meals till night.

No sugars, no starches.

Years ago I had learned you should never weigh yourself every day, because if you found you hadn't lost five more pounds every time you stepped on the scales you felt disappointed.

So I waited to weigh myself at the end of three full weeks, when the results would really show.

It isn't until you're down 10 or

Thieves Attempt To Blow Up Safe

BARRIE, ONT.—Thieves entered the Post and White store on a recent Sunday night and an effort to break into the safe was made.

Although they did not gain entry to the safe, they did do quite a bit of damage. They damaged the door and combination to such an extent that an expert had to be called in to open same—as all locks and records were within and quite an inconvenience was caused to the staff.

Entry into the store was made through the skylight and tools from the hardware counter were used to pry the knob off the safe door and for moving the safe from the wall. It was wrapped with clothing from a sale rack in order to deaden the sound of blowing up the safe.

However, it appeared the would-be thieves were disturbed before completing the job and the back door was left wide open in their haste to get away.

On the same evening, thieves entered the new drive-in theatre by breaking the glass on the front door of the main building. They made off with large quantities of cigarettes and tobacco. The money which was in the till was left untouched.

The RCMP are investigating.

At Canadians' Own Request

Planned saving became a patriotic "must" during World War II as the years of conflict dragged on. People who had never saved money before found it possible, through the success of Victory Loan and War Savings campaigns, to lay aside money. This was done easily by those in industry and on civil payroll through monthly deductions, but many thousands of Canadians without this advantage also learned to save money systematically. They began it "to help the war effort" but, soon as the nest-egg grew, began to appreciate this method of attaining a financial objective.

When the war finally ended, a surprising number of Canadians found that they wanted to continue systematic saving. They liked the method of saving in bond units because they had discovered its advantages through the long series of Victory Bond drives. Bonds were good security in the event of need of a temporary loan. They were not as accessible as other savings but cash could be obtained if necessity arose. If it did not, the gradual addition of bonds built up a safety factor for the rainy day, for retirement or for purchase of a home, farm or equipment. It was like watching a wall grow, brick by brick, but this was a wall of financial protection.

The post-war period resulted in many requests for continuation of Savings Bonds. In many instances, the requests were made through chairmen and members of local War Savings and Victory Loan committees which disbanded with the war's end. These men and women passed on the recommendation through those they had worked with in the provincial committees and, in turn, it reached Ottawa. The requests were so numerous that favorable consideration was accorded the proposal and in October, 1946, Canada Savings Bonds, Series One, was offered to the public, and each October since a further series has been initiated.

Bank of Canada was charged with the responsibility for the first and succeeding Canada Savings Bond issues on behalf of the Finance Minister. Arrangements are made for an advertising campaign each year similar to the promotion that brought the Victory Loan issues to the attention of the public but without the local committees as these Savings Bond offerings are not so much a national patriotic drive as they are an opportunity for the individual to continue or start a personal savings plan.

Canada Savings Bonds are provided in convenient and easily attainable denominations, consequently are favored by both young and old and by all income groups. Their popularity and usefulness is attested by the fact that nearly a million CSB transactions take place each year. Immediate cashability, in event of need, is one of the popular features of Canada Savings Bonds. While maximum purchase is limited, each member of a family may purchase amounts from $50 up to the maximum allowed of each issue. Each bond bears interest coupons providing an attractive rate of earnings on savings.

Again this month a new series of Canada Savings Bonds is being offered, the seventh. They are available either by payment in full or by monthly installments or other arrangements through banks, loan companies and investment dealers. In many instances firms arrange payroll deductions to assist employees desiring to acquire bonds. As everyone has something or someone to save for, we anticipate Canada Savings Bonds will attract many more buyers this Fall as appreciation of this savings plan grows and grows.

Note and Comment

The average rainfall in Alberta from May 1st to July 31st was 8.68 inches. The average for the same period last year was 10.21 inches.

About 113 million bushels of grain, of which 103 million is wheat, was shipped through British Columbia ports, equating an all-time record for west coast shipments.

A Baseball Legend

The New York Yankees, champions of the American League and of the world, as a result of their victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers in this year's World Series, remain a baseball legend in America and all over the world. Even those who are not Yankee fans, and who pulled for the Dodgers in the recent series, must admit that the Yankees have, as the slang expression goes, real class.

Perhaps, the Yankees demonstrated their true ability more clearly in the last days of the pennant race this year than in the World Series. Playing tougher opposition than the Cleveland Indians, who threatened to capture the American League pennant, the Yankees came through with brilliant baseball, often winning the crucial games by shut-outs or one run. In other words, when the chips were down, the Yankees produced.

There can be no doubt that the Yankees have dominated the baseball scene in the United States for the past decade, and even longer. Even when Joe Louis was in his heyday as a boxer, in the 1930's, there were cries of "Break up the Yankees!" At that time, however, a lot of fans accused the Yankees of being a lucky team. But that accusation does not stand up in the light of the happenings of the last 10 or 15 years. The Yankees are a great team, have become almost a legend, by coming through in championship form when the chips were down.

New Cars for 1953

Reports from Detroit indicate that the automobile industry is getting customer-conscious and will make a strong bid to attract buyers in 1953. It is beginning to look as if the big automobile producers will make more changes in next year's models than in any year since the end of World War II.

Chrysler is expected to put its new cars on the market in October and it is understood that there are major changes in the body designs of all four: Plymouth, Dodge, DeSoto and Chrysler. Dodge is expected to come out with a new V-8 engine, 140 horsepower.

General Motors is offering air-conditioning units in the new Cadillacs and Oldsmobiles. Both Buicks and Chevrolets are expected to change to the V-8 type engine.

Ford expects to introduce new cars in November. While extensive body changes are not expected for the new Lincoln, Mercurys and Fords, the Mercurys and Fords may have new and more powerful engines.

Hudson expects to offer a new body and also a new car in the light, six-cylinder field. Studebaker bodies are to be redesigned completely. Packard is offering power-steering and power-brakes.

In other words, it looks as though there will be plenty of competition as the 1953 season approaches. The accent, which has been on power in recent years, is turning toward comfort and the prospects are that there will be plenty of cars to go around.

Early Wheat Beats Frost

From the Winnipeg Free Press

A. W. Manchester, Jarvie, Alberta, farmer, has developed a strain of wheat which may be the answer to the short growing season in northern Alberta. He farms in a district 80 miles northwest of Edmonton. He says his wheat called "Early Harvest" matures two to three weeks ahead of other crops seeded at the same time under the same conditions.

His wheat, developed by years of patient cross-breeding, heads out seven weeks after planting and yields 40 to 45 bushels an acre. Slower-maturing varieties used by Manchester yield 60 to 70 bushels.

Bible Today

And these things, brethren, I have in a figure transferred to myself and to Apollos for your sakes; that ye might learn in us not to think of men above that which is written, that no one of you be puffed up for one against another.—I Corinthians 4:6.

Prominence

"You have caused a great deal of discussion in the office." "Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "Public interest requires that a man in my position should either investigate or be investigated."

How

Angus had been visiting a friend and after a chat he arose to go. His host said, "Will you have a bit of a drink before you go?" Angus nodded, the host asked, "How do you have it?" "On, half and half," then after a pause, "With plenty of soda."

Commissioner L. H. Nicholson of Ottawa, head of Canada's famed Mounted Police, said in Edmonton recently that the force was expected to be at its full strength of 4,400 men by the end of this year.

Nicholson made a widespread tour of RCMP detachments throughout B.C., the Yukon and North West Territories.

He said a recruiting drive this year already had resulted in the RCMP obtaining 200 of the 400 men it needed and recruiting was expected to speed up during the fall and winter months.

The air raid warden had been testing gas masks and had now come to the three old maids at the big house. Amelia and Jane greeted him and apologized for their sister's absence. The masks were adjusted, and the warden said: "Well, now I hope your masks are OK."

"Yes, thank you, they are," replied Amelia, "but what about our Rose?"

The warden, taken aback, said: "Oh, that's not my job; but I think perhaps you could spray them."

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa,

Do you think a girl of sixteen should smoke? All of my friends do.

TEENAGER.

Answer:

Don't start smoking just because your young friends have picked up a bad habit. It is bad for your health and is expensive.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa,

I met a girl while I was in school and fell in love with her.
She is all that anyone could wish
as a wife.

After we had been going together for two years we were married. I had not met her family until after we were married, as she worked in the city where I was taking my medical course and her family lived in another state.

I was very disappointed in her people. They not only seemed ignorant to me but their standards of living were bad. In other words, I simply could not enjoy being with them. I could only marvel that a girl as dainty and with as fine a character as my wife has, could be related to such people!

"Now, this is my problem: My wife has no idea how I feel toward her relatives as I would not hurt her feelings for the world,
but I have been offered a partnership in her home town with an older doctor and she is very eager for me to take it. I feel that this would be a mistake and I should be very unhappy there, but how can I refuse to take it when she would like it so much?

What would you do if you were
I?" M. D.

Answer:

Well, first of all, I would be very honest with myself if I were you and find out what your wife's people were really as ignorant and unattractive as you think them to be or if you are being snobbish because they are not as prominent socially as you would like them to be.

After all, there are some mighty fine people in this world who can't afford fine clothes and expensive homes. They may not have a silver service but, on the other hand, they may be sincere, loyal people, who are kind and helpful to others.

Surely if you wife is such a fine person and loves her family

so much, they must have some good qualities.

On the other hand, if they are rowdy, tough people who will interfere with your practice as a young physician, you will do well to get as far away from them as possible when you start your career.

LOUISA.

Four Years Without A Strike

General Motors President

Charles E. Wilson reports in the September Reader's Digest that GM's "progress-sharing" plan has given the company four strikeless years. The plan has a dual core:
(A) allows an hour's wage to the cost of living; (B) it guarantees
the workers an automatic annual increase in his hourly wage, assuring him that his wage will keep pace with the nation's progress in industrial efficiency. Scoffers once maintained that a cut in wages, when living costs
went down, would meet opposition. Wilson says wages were lowered five cents an hour during 1949-50 when the living-cost index fell, and there was no walking out.

Think Rare Birds Have Offspring

EDMONTON — Prof. William

Rowan of the University of Alberta's zoology department reported that at least one and possibly

two of the almost-extinct whooping cranes were produced this Summer in the Peace River country of northwestern Alberta.

Prof. Rowan who completed a month-long investigation under sponsorship of the Alberta Government, said he could in a prepared statement that "there seems little doubt now that two whooping cranes were seen in northern Alberta early in August and that they produced at least one young, and possibly two."

Naturalists believe there are fewer than 100 of the big birds alive today and some place the figure at less than 50.

A few days after becoming the proud owner of a new gas range, I paid a visit to my mother in the country. One morning at the breakfast table, I was expounding the merits of my stove as compared to mother's old wood range.

My sister, who was frying hot-cakes in the kitchen, called "Mother, where is the lard?" Mother answered, "It's on top of the stove." My sister, who apparently hadn't heard me say it, asked again,
"Where did you say it is?"

A young son, who had been busily filling his plate with syrup apparently oblivious to all our conversation, called out, "She says it's on top of Old Smoky!"
I was embarrassed by my son's remark, which I knew hurt my mother's feelings.

Husky Football Stars Visit Sick Children In Red Cross Hospital

Patients at Alberta's Red Cross Crippled Children's hospital were sure they were the luckiest kids in town Wednesday when members of the Calgary Stampeders Football team dropped in for a visit.

As sports' minded as any other youngsters, the patients could hardly contain their excitement when Les Lear, Ed Champaigne, Stan Heath, Bob Mike and Sugarfoot Anderson made bed-to-bed and ward-to-ward calls. Cries of "Where's Sugarfoot?" preceded the party down the corridors as the youngsters vocally expressed their excitement.

John Bright of the Stampeders was originally scheduled to join the party but as an appendectomy stood in his way, Les Lear brought along Bright's number "43" sweater and helmet and let the kids try them on. All were football stars for a time and their grins evidenced their thrill.

Report 121 Days Without Frost

The Federal government's experimental station at Lacombe, Alta., reported that this summer was one of the longest frost-free periods in 44 years.

The Central Alberta district enjoyed 121 consecutive days of frostless weather, compared with 77 days last year and 71 frost-free days in the summer of 1950.

The longest frost-free period in the station's history was in 1940, when there were 136 consecutive days without frost.

Easterners Help Complete Western Harvest

The near completion of harvest can be attributed, to a certain extent, to the more than 1,100 easterners who came west to help with harvest operations. According to figures released by F. H. Newcombe, director of extension, provincial department of agriculture, the number who came west this fall exceeded that of last year, when only 987 found their way out.

Some of the workers came directly from eastern Canada. Mr. Newcombe said, and others came to Alberta after first working in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, where the harvest was slightly earlier.

"This has been the first year in some time," he said, "that the supply of harvest workers has kept up with the demand. Very few requests for workers this year have not been satisfied."

The westward movement of harvest workers is ended, with the exception of "a few workers who may drift into the province after completing work in Saskatchewan."
